

DINING

Restaurants

Seafood and Cocktails

The stylish new Bulot Bulot, in the charming Abbesses district of Montmartre is just the hip little seafood shack you'll wish you had within walking distance of your front door wherever you live. It's postage-stamp-sized, so not for claustrophobes, but everyone else will love its friendliness, fair prices, and the excellence of its shellfish oriented menu. Charming owner Etienne Ryckeboer serves superb oysters from his cousin's oyster beds in Normandy, plus other bivalves from Brittany, first-rate crab or lobster rolls, and great desserts, including Key Lime cheesecake. Cocktails are de rigueur here, too, thanks to talented mixologist Margot Lecarpentier, who formerly worked at Le Mary Celeste, one of the best bars in Paris. The restaurant also offers a short but excellent wine list that includes a terrific Alban Roblin Sancerre. – A.L.

Bulot Bulot
83 rue des Martyrs (18th), 01 42 64 19 09

